

Last-request channel load: two co-read documents

Each tile is one channel; a shared color scale preserves the load difference.
The two large documents spread across two channels, not uniformly across all eight. This is not a latency heatmap.